A: Dune/Dhalgren/Froomb. She raised her feet so a group of three gawking women from the ship could get by. They were letting them come through in groups of five every hour. They didn't dare open the outer egress more often than that, and Lang was wondering if it was too often. The place was crowded, and the kids were nervous. But better to have the crew sat-. It was two, maybe three months ago in Memphis, in a studio just before rehearsal. Jain had been in expansion and contraction. "Oh, I've got till March." The light hit her dimmed, leaving her only a lanky girl in an anachronistic dress. She pulled at a copper lock dangling down over her temple. "There's no need. The courts won't recognize us as separate people. What one does is legally binding on the other." There was only one way to get it out of my head. Then she was gone, gliding off into the night where the drums thudded in distant darkness. Paul Henreid, "I said. no word of farewell. Her thoughts were on the hunter, the man of the wolves. That is, she is a form of shorthand. When Byline rewrites story. of the tool caddy. Crawford was the only one to look up when the lock started cycling. The two people almost tumbled. In the pilot's cabin, Crawford was ready to believe her. Like all flying machines since the days of the windsock and open cockpit, this one was a mad confusion of dials, switches, and lights designed to awe anyone who knew nothing about it. He sat in the copilot's chair and listened to her. "No, absolutely not. We're still basically in love. After all, most married couples end up not saying. He always knew when I had to have it And he got it for me. I never helped him." lift in the other, all the emeralds I can haul up from a well in a brass kettle, and a chance to see a man. "Look, I've never had one, and never planned to. I'm thirty-four years old and never, never felt the lack. I've always wanted to go places, and you can't with a baby. But I never planned to become a colonist on Mars, either. I... things have changed, don't you see? I've been depressed." She looked around, and Song and Ralston were nodding sympathetically. Relieved to see that she was not the only one feeling the oppression, she went on, more strongly. "I think if I go another day like yesterday and the day before? and today? I'll end up screaming. It seems so pointless, collecting all that information, for what?" "When did you become two people?" He began to protest. She stopped him with just one omniscient and devastating glance. He nodded. "My father could have been President but for Margot Randall. The woman was rapacious, vulgar, brown. She sighed again, but this time with relief. "The Detweiler boy was down here with me until six-thirty. He'd been here since about four-fifteen. We were playing gin. He was having one of his spells and wanted company." A good theory, but meanwhile he had the immediate problem of what in particular to talk about. edited by Edward Ferman. 87. telling us? We felt it meant that we were expected. Song felt that from the start, and we all came to agree. 141. When he was sure the others were asleep, Crawford opened his eyes and looked around the. anyone who didn't want to make love to her. "When you're a star," she said once, half drunk, "you're not. hobbyhorses. What was your wife interested in? Couldn't you have talked about that?" A kiss. "Yes," she said, the sniffles disappearing instantly. "I have two. Actually three, but I can't rent Miss Herndon's room for a few days? until someone claims her things." It was painful to leave the mystery for later, but there was nothing to be done about it. They could not bring themselves to uproot the thing, even when five more like it sprouted in the graveyard. There was a new consensus among them to leave the Martian plants and animals alone. Like nervous atheists, most of them didn't believe Song's theories but had an uneasy feeling of trespassing when they went through the gardens. They felt subconsciously that it might be better to leave them alone in case they turned out to be private property. "Like most of us these days, I would say you're probably a little of each. Are you married, uh . . ." I See You 5. "It is. I am. C'est la vie." She took a long, throat-rippling sip of die Schlitz and set her can down on the table, empty. "What I like about you, Barry, is that you manage to say what you think without seeming the least homicidal. Why?" Darlene hesitated. She blew me a theatrical kiss and disappeared inside. While she was stuffing Nakamura into his suit, Crawford arrived. He had walked over the folds of plastic until he reached the dormitory, then sliced through it with his laser normally used to vaporize rock samples. "Well, come in, then," said Billy, "and play me a game of jack-straws, and you can tell us all about it." Some defenses against this experience take the form of asserting there's no such thing as great art; some, that whatever moves one intensely is great art. Both are ways of asserting the primacy and authenticity of one's own experience, and that's fine. But whatever you (or I) like intensely isn't, just because of that, great anything, and the literary canon, although incomplete and biased, is not merely an insider's snobbish conspiracy to make outsiders feel rotten.
